The Arc of the Grinnell Attitude in Our Lives
Meet in the HSSC Atrium

This event is exclusively for the 50th reunion cluster. Many of us remember Martin Luther King’s address to the Grinnell community that spoke to social justice, engagement with things that matter, the inter-connectedness of life, and the courage to make a difference. It included King’s memorable passage that “the arc of the moral universe is long, but it bends toward justice.” That speech connected at a broad level with the “attitude” that legendary Grinnell president John H. T. Main believed went hand-in-hand with the Grinnell education – a sensibility to go into the world to lead active, curious, and purposeful lives. For some of us, the Grinnell attitude has led us to engage with profound vectors of social and cultural change that framed our years on campus and have endured across the decades, such as the pursuit of justice and equity in so many dimensions of race, gender, and economic status; stewardship of the global environment; or advancing the place of art, music, and culture. For others, the Grinnell attitude has helped us build a sense of community, peace, humanity, and integrity – in our families, where we work, and where we live.

So how about you? How has the Grinnell sensibility played out in your life? A long-term trajectory, a pivotal moment, your sense of self? Join fellow 50th reunion classmates for a special discussion of these topics. Meet in the HSSC Atrium to draw an assignment for your room.
